They were headed to Washington State, to see some friends and family. When we were almost there I Strikingly Remembered That I had left my Kindle at Home, I was furious with myself! What was I going to read when I got bored out of my mind! I felt like screaming and telling my mom to turn around because I forgot my Kindle! When we got to our hotel, the desk person had on what looked to be brand Spanking new glasses! The Rim of her new looking glasses were Notable! I wished that I could Quietly go and take them, and Keep them for myself. But my good Spirit wouldn't let me do that.

When we finally reached our room I plopped on the bed and turned the tv on. There was a commercial on, and it was a store commercial, and it was asking "What do you Desire, or even Crave? That was just plain out weird, I shut the to off after that commercial. After we went to bed, I woke up in the middle of the night and couldn't go back to sleep. So instead I went downstairs into the lobby where there was a pool, and I took the room key down there with me so I could open the door to the pool. When I got in there, I sat down and put my feet in the nice and cool refreshing water. I had woken up on one of those lawn chair things, to the sound of my mothers voice telling me to wake up.

I finally woke up after my mom threw a bucket of pool water on me. Getting pool water dumped on you to wake you up is something I Detest. When we were all ready to go to a friends house, my mother sat us all down and told us the rules to follow when we are there. She also told us that the Border around his yard was fenced in with lava rock. We went inside of his house to cool down because it was really hot, we ate strawberries and Whipped cream. The whipped cream was soo creamy and delicious with the strawberries, the strawberries were huge! Then we went back outside to play on the lawn for hours.
